The Red Legged Warriors of the Tribe of Ewing Ran Away from the Locals

"Sandy" was no Enigma for the Leaguers, and Davy who succeeded him was about as easy, while the Locals couldn't find Dammann.

Hixson had an Off Day. O. Carroll fielded sensationally. The Visitors monkeyed toward the finish.

"They came, they saw, they conquered" as every one expected. The Red legged ball tossers from the porkopolis and metropolis of Ohio found easy victims in Highland's wearers of the scarlet hose. It was a good natured contest because it was one sided, and every one who was there seemed to thoroughly enjoy it. No one expected Hillsboro to win, and counted them lucky when they were able to score against the top notchers of the National League.

"Wee Willie" Dammann, who has for the past few weeks been easy for the batters of the big league, was pitted at the slab against the locals, and seemed to take great delight in revenging himself upon them. He had lightning speed and curves and ten of the locals expired in fruitless efforts to connect with his delivery. The scorer credits the locals with seven hits, although most of them were of the "dinky" order.

Opposed to the Porkopolitans was the woodpecker battery in the points for Hillsboro. "Sandy's" reputation had extended even unto the city and the Reds started out to show him how easy it was for them to pound the pigskin. Willie was erratic at the start, but settled and pitched creditably. But ten hits were made during the six innings he officiated, but the Reds didn't play their "level best." Reece, succeeded him in the seventh, and in response to a scattering applause, struck out the first batter up, "Old Eagle Eye" Beckley. In the two innings that Davy was at the slab he was touched up for four bingles.

The game was devoid of any brilliant features, with the exception of O. Carroll's fielding in left. Several of the locals were slightly nervous going against the big leaguers. Hixson, at short, of whom much was expected, was away off, and could neither field nor bat. His appearance to be a bad case of rattles. The Reds fielded with such little effort that nothing appeared hard for them, and toward the last of the game the entire team played on the infield just to show the locals how easy they were.

The fact was developed that "Buck" Ewing was a native Highland countian. He admitted in a conversation with some citizens that he was born near Houghtland's Crossing, and lived there until he was some four or five years old, and this was his first visit to the scenes of his childhood. Highland countians may now congratulate themselves upon having a distinguished representative in a branch of sport of which they had almost despaired of being creditably represented.

The crowd in attendance was conservatively estimated at 1,500, although the turnstiles only registered 1,000, thus assuring a financial success.

Shortly after two "Red" Ehret called "play ball!" The game by innings:

FIRST INNING.
Griffith popped a high one back of third for Irwin, Hixson struck out, and Reece went down Ewing to Beckley. Erratic, as usual, in the opening innings, Sandy hit Burke, the first man up, and he trotted to the bag with a grimace. The "Dummy" then drew a base on balls, and Ritchey's long fly went to O. Carroll in left. Beckley hit a long one into the buggies in right center that was good for a homer, and three runs crossed the rubber. Ewing drew a base on balls, and Peitz and Vaughn flew in succession to O. Carroll. Both were difficult chances and Ot was liberally applauded.

SECOND INNING.
O. Carroll couldn't connect, Day was easy. Ritchey to Beckley and Chaney also fanned. O. Carroll seemed to have a monopoly on chances and retired Dammann on his high one to left. Irwin hit safely but was caught trying to steal. Smith to Griffith. Burke hit a hot one to Hix, who couldn't handle it, and Eddie was safe. Hoy's grounder to Day was the third out.

THIRD INNING.
Irwin gobbled Allen's grounder, and he was out to Beckley. Smith died fanning, and Sandy's grounder was easy for Irwin to Beckley.

Ritchey's high bouncer caromed out of W. Carroll's hands and rolled safe. Beckley batted out a bingle and Ewing followed suit with a bingle for three bags. Peitz singled but was caught trying to steal. Smith to Hixson. Vaughn struck out, and Dammann's out, Griffith to Day, retired the side. Three runs.

FOURTH INNING.
Griffith hit safely, and Hixson struck out. Ewing fumbled an easy grounder by Reece, who was forced by O. Carroll. Day was a victim to "Wee Willie's" speed, a strike out.

Burke took first on Griffith's excusable muff of his pop up back of second. Hoy hit safely but was caught trying to steal. Griffith to Hix. It was an intentional sacrifice. Ritchey was retired, Hixson to Day, and Beckley fled to Hix.

FIFTH INNING.
Chaney was out to Beckley, Allen couldn't fathom Dammann's shoots and succumbed Irwin to "Eagle Eye." Smith worked a base on balls, but Sandy's grounder to Beckley retired the side.

Ewing fled to Reece. Peitz hit safely. Hixson's most ardent admirers lost all confidence when he fumbled "Farmer" Vaughn's grounder. The "Farmer" was caught, Smith to Hixson, trying to steal, and Peitz scored. Dammann was out, Griffith to Day.

SIXTH INNING.
Griffith hit a hot one through the infield that was safe, and Hixson fanned automatically. Reece followed with a hit, and O. Carroll forced Griff. at third. Day struck out.

Irwin hit a beauty and purposely sacrificed himself, Smith to Allen. Hixson fumbled Burke's and Hoy's grounders in succession. But "Eddie, Eddie, Eddie" was caught napping at first and Ritchey's grounder to that bag was easy for Day.

SEVENTH INNING.
As Hillsboro had been unable to hit the ball out of the infield the Reds' outfield came into the diamond, and Peitz and Beckley enlivened the occasion with much good natured "kiddin'." Chaney hit a little one just out of Ritchey's reach, and his single blossomed into Hillsboro's first run. Allen sacrificed him to second, Ewing to Beckley, and Smith advanced him to third on his out, Ritchey to Beckley. W. Carroll bunted to Irwin and beat it out, and Chaney slid over the rubber. Griffith forced Carroll at second, Dammann to Ewing.

Reece relieved Sandy in this inning, and deceived "Eagle Eye" Jake into fanning. Ewing hit safely, Peitz fled to W. Carroll in center. "Farmer" Vaughn binged and Ewing scored. Dammann was another strike out for Davy and he was deservedly applauded.

EIGHTH INNING.
Hixson felt the pigskin for the first time and popped a little one to Ewing. Reece gained the initial bag on Ritchey's wide throw to "Eagle Eye." O. Carroll's grounder to Beckley sacrificed him to second. Day hit safely and Davy cantered over the bag. Chaney made a bid for admission into the fanning stakes, and the side was retired.

Burke hit a pop up to Allen. Griffith's error gave Hoy the bag. Hixson again offended by dropping Ritchey's fly in left, and the bases were filled by Davy's gift to Beckley of a base on balls, and cleared by Peitz's three bagger. Vaughn went out, Hixson to Day, and "Heiney" scored on Irwin's solid bingle to center.

NINTH INNING.
Smith fled to Ritchey. W. Carroll couldn't find Dammann, and Ritchey made a wonderful forward one handed running catch of Griffith's pop up, and the game was over.

THE STROUP'S WILL PLEAS.

Everything will be in readiness for the Sixth Annual Stroup Reunion, on Thursday of next week, August 26. The finishing touches will be put on the grove just south of Dodsonville, on the Dawson pike this Thursday, when at two o'clock the privileges will be sold. The New Market Band will furnish music for the Reunion. Michael Stroup's wedding ceremony will be performed by the New Market parties, and a good time in general will be had. As it is an all day picnic the most enjoyment may be had by taking dinner on the ground, using the precaution to prepare your dinner before leaving home. All are welcome.

FOR BUGGIES.

And carriages of all kinds, come to Roush & Lemon's livery stable. Will trade for a few sound horses.

REPUBLICAN CONVENTION.

A Grand, Enthusiastic, Harmonious Meeting of Representative Men on Tuesday Last.

A Splendid Ticket Nominated. Everybody Goes Home Determined to Fight for the Biggest Majority ever given in Highland County

The convention was called to order at 10:15 a. m., by Col. Mont. Morrow, chairman of Executive Committee. L. Heiskell, nominated Hon. Jonah Britton for temporary chairman. Hon. H. A. Pavey presented Hon. C. S. Bell.

A Fullerton was chosen clerk and J. W. Rogers, teller. The parties not appearing, Chas. Eckert, of Madison, and J. W. Watts were selected to fill these positions. The balloting resulted, Bell 73, Britton 79.

Mr. Britton took the chair, with a neat speech of thanks. He reviewed and upheld the history and principles of the Republican party.

R. B. Barrett and Chas. Eckert were nominated for temporary secretaries. Mr. Barrett withdrew in favor of Mr. Eckert, who was elected unanimously.

The following committee was then appointed by the convention to present to the convention names for the committee on Credentials, Permanent Organization, Resolutions, Rules and Order of Business:

W. W. Haller, S. D. Amen, O. C. Wickerham, Chas. E. Brown, E. R. Roush.

Pending the report of the committee, the convention called on a number of those present for speeches.

Hon. H. A. Pavey responded. He referred incidentally to the recent local troubles, explaining his position and that of his friends. He treated those matters as happily adjusted, and could now see nothing to prevent a sweeping Republican victory in Highland county this fall.

Mayor H. D. Davis said this was no time for factional disputes. He was for the ticket that might be nominated, and hoped the Republicans would all unite in an honest, earnest effort for its triumphant election.

Hon. L. Heiskell said he had acted in the past for what he considered the best interests of the party and now urged unity of purpose and action to the end that the entire Republican ticket might be elected in Highland county.

Hon. Jonah Britton had heard very little of factional troubles and believed that all differences had disappeared. He prophesied a united and energetic campaign and a grand Republican majority.

Hon. C. S. Bell said that such action as he had taken in the troubles so loudly heralded, had been prompted by a sincere and earnest desire for harmony and success in the party.

At this juncture the committee reported as follows:

Committee on Permanent organization—Hon. H. A. Pavey, J. W. Cramton, George Kress, Vernon Garrett, J. F. Belleason

Rules and Order of Business—Wm. Orange, John Grant, Peter Adams, L. G. McMicken, Robt. Watts.

Credentials—I. Q. Roberts, Warren Barrett, Ed. Colvin, Wm. Daniels, F. M. Thomas.

Resolutions—Geo. L. Garrett, L. Heiskell, Hama Troth, Will B. Tomlinson, Wm. Roush.

The report of the committee was adopted, and the convention recessed until 1:00 p. m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The committee on Credentials reported no contests.

Committee on Permanent Organization named C. S. Bell for chairman, R. B. Barrett and O. C. Wickerham secretaries, and J. W. Watts teller. These reports were adopted.

Mr. Bell took the chair, expressing his sincere thanks for the honor. He declined to make any extended remarks, but hoped that all would remember that the ticket they were about to nominate would be the choice of the whole party and should be heartily supported by every true Republican.

The reports of the committees on Rules and Order of Business and on Resolutions were presented and adopted. The resolutions reaffirm the principles of the Republican State and National platforms and endorse the administrations of McKinley and Bushnell commend the passage of the Dingley Tariff and congratulate the people on returning prosperity. They also endorse the course of Senators Foraker and Hanna and urge the return of the latter to the U. S. Senate. They were received with tremendous manifestations of applause.

The nomination of candidates resulted as follows:
For Representative—H. H. Redkey, by acclamation.

Clerk—Jas. McSurely 54, Joseph G. Bell 95.

Treasurer—Chas. E. Hixson, by acclamation.

Sheriff—J. G. Williamson 92, Fred M. Robinson 49, George Miller 8, Thos. Fitzsimons 9. Williamson's nomination was made unanimous.

Commissioner—W. C. McCoppin, by acclamation.

Infirmary Director—John Bennett 92, John Winegardner 47, J. G. Redkey 24. The names of the following Central Committees were reported:

Starving.

Commissioner John C. Caldwell has just received an appeal, directed to our people, by chief mine inspector R. M. Haseltine, one of the officials of our State, calling attention to the terrible destitution prevailing in the Ohio mining regions. The people are suffering through no fault of their own. He says, "Owing to their personal pride and their aversion to being under obligations to anyone, there are but few persons who have any conception as to the number of people who are in want, much less as to the intensity of suffering and hunger that now exists among the unfortunate people in the mining regions of Ohio. From the most reliable sources it is learned that night after night women and children are forced to retire without having a mouthful of food for their supper, and instances are reported where they are compelled to subsist the entire day upon one scanty meal."

Our people are appealed to for help. They never turn a deaf ear to the cries of the suffering. Give of your abundance. The cause for which these people are suffering is a just one. Think of their wretchedness, look at your own loved ones, and then do as you would be done by. Supplies left at this office or at the Commissioners' office in the Court House will be promptly forwarded.

All Summer Shoes cut to prices that will close them quick, at FAIRBANKS.

NEW MARKET CENTENNIAL.

Further Particulars Concerning This Interesting Event.

Wide-spread Appreciation of the News-Herald's Report of Last Week.

The exhaustive and pains-taking report of the Centennial celebration at New Market, presented to our readers has received many compliments. One cannot live on compliments, however, but we are glad to say that in this case the appreciation of the people has been shown by the whole purchase of our extra issue.

Both time and space last week prevented our printing all the items of interest relative to the first centenary of our county. We therefore devote the following space to a further consideration of this auspicious event. We believe our reports will receive the wide-spread endorsement of our many readers.

The following names are of those who took part in the concert the first night: White Coat Jubilee Operetta—Turkish Pedler, Dr. J. W. Letherman; Gypsy Pedler, Miss Edith Letherman; Policemen, A. D. McConnaughey, Frank Robinson, Harley Holt; Chorus of Maidens, Anna Wilkin, Mamie Carr, Madge Purdy, Harrie H. Cook, Helen Rodgers, Blangie Wilkin, Josie Bell, Louie Gall, Libbie Gall and Trude Vance. The White Coats, under Captain J. E. W. Cook, were Joseph Strain, Loren Hicks, P. S. Bell, Roy Rodgers, Stanley Rodgers, Baton Hare, Jas. Barrere, Charles Murray and Roy Carr.

In the Brownies' Carnival, Josie Bell was the Princess and Stanley Rodgers the Prince. The Brownies were, Lon Carr, Grover Murray, Guy McConnaughey, Basil P. Cook, Harley Wilkin, Dean Lemon and Gerald Nesbit. The Liliputians dancers were, Jessie Nickerson, Freda Cook, Verna VanWinkle, Mellie Nesbit, Marley VanWinkle and Louisa VanWinkle. These little folks were as pleased to exhibit their skill as the people were to see them, and they were called on frequently to repeat their parts during the celebration.

The Quixotic Quakers were, Rebecca, Mrs. Ella Letherman; Mary, Madge Purdy; Sarah, Sallie Purdy; Hannah, Mrs. Harrie H. Cook; Alice, Mrs. Mamie Carr; Elizabeth, Mrs. Ella Bell; Ruth, Miss Helen Rodgers; Rachel, Miss Edith Letherman; Reuben, Dr. J. W. Letherman; Parson, J. E. W. Cook. All who heard them will recall the minor pathos of the old refrain, "No one to love, none to care."

The ladies who sang in the "Heavy-weight Glee" were all robust and hearty. Mrs. Dr. Letherman read an original poem written by Rev. J. E. W. Cook for the occasion, and the piece they sang on "New Market's Loving Kindness," was composed by Miss Edith Letherman. The "Heavyweights" were: Mesdames W. Hicks, Ella Letherman, Typhibia Carr, Minerva Eyer, Becky Strain, Lizze DeHess, Mamie Carr, N. Lemon, Alice Vance, Mollie Harris, Lola Bell, Ellen Purdy, Sallie Custer, Tude Vance, Ella Bell and Belle Roush.

The committees of the Century Plant Society deserve to be recorded. We append them for future reference: President, J. D. VanWinkle; 1st Vice President, C. A. Wilkin; 2d Vice President, P. S. Bell; Secretary, Miss Sallie L. Purdy; Assistant Secretary, Willoughby Barrere; Treasurer, C. W. Carr. Finance Committee—Dr. J. W. Letherman, Rev. J. E. W. Cook, D. H. VanWinkle. Program Committee—C. C. Muhlbach, D. H. VanWinkle, Willoughby Barrere, Mrs. Ella Letherman, C. W. Carr, Mrs. Lottie Robinson, Rev. J. E. W. Cook, and the late Mrs. Anna VanWinkle, who up to the time of her death manifested deep interest in the success of the celebration.

Decorations Committee—P. S. Bell, T. M. Wilkin, Baton Hare, Dr. Letherman, Mrs. C. W. Carr.

Music Committee—Mesdames Ella Letherman, Ella Bell, Laura Holt, Zylphia Carr, Anna Wilkin, Fidelia Barrere, Cora Sonner.

Advertising Committee—C. C. Muhlbach, J. W. Letherman, Rev. Cook.

Relics Committee—Colvin Dugan, J. W. Letherman, D. H. VanWinkle.

Committee for selecting grounds—C. W. Carr.

Sports Committee—A. D. McConnaughey, Newton Whisler, P. S. Bell.

Building Committee—P. S. Bell, C. W. Carr, Cap. Barrere, Noah Carr, Baton Hare.

Committee on locating log cabin, stage, &c.—C. W. Carr, C. A. Wilkin, Cap. Barrere, A. D. McConnaughey, Newton Whisler.

Committee on night entertainments—A. D. McConnaughey, D. A. VanWinkle, C. A. Wilkin.

Water Committee—Cap. Barrere, P. S. Bell, Dr. Letherman.

Committee on Lumber—Dr. Letherman, Baton Hare, P. S. Bell.

Among the friends from a distance who visited us during the celebration we mention the following in addition to our list of last week: C. W. Cropper, Manchester, O.; Mrs. Dr. C. E. Vance and son, Gas City, Ind.; Thomas Remson, Indiana; Fred Parrot and daughter, Charles Murray, Greenfield; Thomas Rodger and wife, New Vienna; Lucy Amburg and son, of Marion; Mrs. Cal Greathouse and Arminia Barrere, New Vienna; W. B. Hain, Blanchester.

[Lack of time compels us to leave a number of notes concerning the Centennial relics over until next week.]—Ed.

SOME INSTANCES.

There was one time a General of an army who sought to increase the food of his men; so he cut down the ration from 40 to 20 ounces, and then ordered that each soldier shall have two rations. (But the men were just as hungry as before.)

There was once a dry goods merchant who, desiring to increase his sales, threw away the old yardsticks and got a lot of new ones made 18 inches long, and thereby doubled his sales. (But his cash book showed no additional business.)

There was once a baker who thought the people should buy more bread and so to double his sales, he made his loaves weigh 9 ounces instead of 18 as before. (But the people didn't eat any more bread.)

There was one time a farmer, who to provide for a falling market for corn, reduced his bushel measure so that when corn fell from 30 to 15 cts., his bushel measure held just two pecks. (This might have been fun for the farmer but it was a dead steal on the other fellow.)

There was once upon a time a woman who kept a boarding house who noticed that the boarders used great quantities of sugar in their coffee, so to offset this extravagance, she mixed sand with her sugar, using half and half. (As a consequence, the boarders used twice as much sugar to get the required sweetness.)

Such experiences can be multiplied. They show that you can't make anything by a subterfuge and a fraud. They show that worth and value are based upon reality and truth, and not on a name and a fiction. They show that it is just as wicked for a government to water its money as for a grasping corporation to water its stock. They show that increasing the stock of money from 500 million 100 cent dollars to 1000 million 50 cent dollars does not increase the business power of the currency, but that at the same time, by changing a standard of value, it modifies every contract and amounts to repudiation and rascality.—Fronton Register.

The action of the Ohio Populists in refusing to endorse the Democratic ticket and platform is attracting much attention throughout the entire country. There are but few people outside of the Democratic party in Ohio who had any idea that the Populists of the State would endorse the nomination and platform of a convention which deliberately ignored them both in its selections of candidates and the framing of its platform, and their action in declining to come to the support of a ticket from whose benefits they had been carefully excluded is generally commended as not only proper and wise, but an indication of manly self respect.

The Adams County New Era has the following unkind cut at our Hillsboro friend. Davidson can't make our people believe any such stuff about Rev. J. W. Klise. We know him too well. If he wrote to Hanna, it was simply because, after backsliding, he had experienced another change of heart, and now wants to get back on the Lord's side. The New Era says:

A well grounded rumor is a flying around that the Rev. John Wesley Klise has written to Mark Hanna offering to make Republican speeches this fall and pose as a converted free silver advocate in return for some of Mark's good yellow gold. Klise writes that he can make better Republican than Anarchist speeches and his terms are $10 and "found." Klise, two years ago, made Republican speeches all over Highland county, he being paid by the Republican committee of Highland county, last year the Democratic committee of Adams paid him so much a speech and expenses and he worked the free silverites for about $150 and three months board. We hope that Hanna will not get extravagant and pay Klise any big money. He is not worth much, and he has posed as a "horrible example" for so many different things, that he has rather worn his recommendations out so far as any benefit to the purchaser of his recommendation is concerned.
